Republican State Convention. The undersigned is directed by the Republicau State Central Committee to call upon the voters of the Republican party in West-Virginia to send delegates to a Convention to be hald at Grafton, on the 202 day of May next, at 10 a. m., for the on the message of may next, as no 1. M., so mappropose of choosing delegates to the National Republican Convention, to be held at Philadelphia, on the 6th day of next June, and for the purpose of transacting such other business as may then seem appropriate. The Committee urga upon the Republicans of the State the importance of a full attendance at the State Convention.

The Committee recognized

That in each county, unless other arrange ments are made by its Executive Committee the County Convention assemble at the Court the County Convention assemble at the Court House, on Saturday, the 11th day of May next, to choose delegates to the State Convention. That each County Convention fill any vacan-cies that may exist in the County Executive Committee, so that a full list of the Committee may be reported at the State Convention. as ar from the nen as the thrower stood at the time, in a course due west from the same, the hen then bearing by the compass north-northeast by half east. AND now Martinsburg is in a rage be cause the Democratic State Convention was not called to meet at that place. The Statesman learns, with burning indignation, that "some guilty wretch" represented to the committee that Martinsbur did not want the Convention, and pro poses "to ferret out and gibbet" him before an insulted and outraged people."

THE following tresh and highly impor tant intelligence is telegraphed from Cincincinnati as "special" to the Register:

"The great Andy Johnson Convention of 1866, was an immense one, but the trouble was that the whole party was there. It was a party of leaders without constituents at home. An army of Brigadiers without any rank and file."

THE INTELLIGENCER yesterday furnish ed its readers eleven and a quarter col umns of telegraphic news. The Regiters yesterday furnished its readers four and a half columns of telegraphic news. Our report of the Cincinnati Conventions filled eight columns and three-quarters; the Register's just three columns. Our report of the Liberal Convention filled nearly seven columns and a half; the Register' two and three-quarters. Our report of the Democratic Convention ("The other Convention," as our neighbor facetiously calls it,) filled a column and a third; the Register's was comprised in less than a quarter of a column. THE Martinsburg Statesman thus dis poses of the searching and unanswerable criticisms of the new Constitution contributed to our columns by "A. Republican and by "R. J. P."

and by "R. J. F."

The Wheeling Inventioners whose to have a class of correspondents whose criticisms of the New Constitution remind us more of the discussions which might be expected in a country debating society, than of the views of statesmen. We have never before seen so much juvenile and trashy composition in the columns of that generally able and influential journal.

The Correspondents referred to make

The correspondents referred to rank with the ablest men in the State. One is a Republican; the other a Democrat. Whoever read their articles knows that they can't be answered; and that is what troubles our statesman-like cotemporary. A little of the same kind of "trashy and juvenile stuff" in the editorial columns of the Statesman would greatly add to that journal's reputation.

She weighed beworld, died in St. Louis a few days ago at the age of 51 years. She weighed between nine hundred and a thousand pounds. Her dimensions were five feet ten inches in height, twenty inches across the shoulders, and thirty-seven inches across the hips. Her arms were thirty inches in circumference. When she had been arrayed in burial vestments it was found impossible for seven men to lift her. Finally the box was tilted on one side and she was rolled in while the priest chanted the service of the dead. She was then placed in a large wagon which proceeded slowly to the cemetry. The wagon was backed up to the grave, and eight men and six rollers combined their exertions to lower her into her narrow bed.

Stick to the Broomstick. Did you ever see a woman throughone at a hen? It is one of the most dicrous accurate everyday life. Wi Did you ever see a woman throw a stone at a hee? It is one of the most indicrous somes in everyday life. We recently observed the process—indeed, we paid more attention than the hea did for she did not mind it at all, and laid an egg the next day as if nothing had happened. In fact, that hen will now know for the first time that she served in the capacity of a target. The predatory fowl had invaded the precincts of the flower bed, and was industriously pecking and scratching for the nutritious seed or the early worm, blissfully unconscious of impending danger. The lady now appears upon the scene with a broom. This she drops and picks up a rocky fragment of the Silurian age, and then makes her first mistake—they all do it—of seizing the projectile with the wrong hand. Then, with malice alcrethought, she makes the further blunder of swinging her arms perpendicularly instead of horizontally—thereupon the stone flies into the air, describing an irregular elliptical curve, and strikes the surface of the earth as far from the hen as the thrower stood at the time, in a course due west from the same, the hen then bearing by the A NOTHER LARGE ARRIVAL OF
